raconteurs, a parson, a couple of Deacons daughters and an imaginary mistletoe bough the evening couldn't be slow and it wasn't!

Waimea Sunday Schools

The first Christmas tree to be held here was that given in the Hawaiian Church last Saturday evening under the direction of the members of the Hawaiian Church and the Salvation Army. The tree was for the Sunday School children of both churches, and notwithstanding that a full house was present, everybody received a gift from the tree. The affair was the most elaborate ever given here and hundreds of little hearts were made extremely happy.

Japanese Sunday School

The Japanese Sunday School gave a Christmas tree Monday in the Hall. The house was appropriately decorated and the tree was burdened with gifts for all. The hall was filled with happy children.

Lihue Korean Church
The little Korean Church on the crest of the Kapaia hill, gave a tree to its members on Monday evening. The decorations, which were most generous, yet harmoniously placed, consisted of cypress and just the proper amount of colored paper cut into short strips, strung cross-wise of the room. The tree stood near the pulpit and fairly groaned under its load of good cheer. A packed house, with a goodly sprinkling of eager boys and girls, showed convincing proof that the bright faced Korean youth is as fully aware of the spirit of the time as is his white brother. The tree yielded something for everybody and as a result, happiness was depicted on every face.

Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon
Another pretty family tree was that given by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sheldon of Kapaa. Beautiful decorations consisting of shiny, silver bells, gold and silver tinsel and numerous other ornaments combined with the light of dozens of little colored candles, made the tree a picture which completely captivated the guests. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sheldon, Sr., and Misses Hannah and Daisy Sheldon of Lihue were among those present.

Mrs. E. W. Palmer
Mrs. E. W. Palmer belongs to the fraternity of Santa Claus, and is accordingly dear to the hearts of the children. With characteristic generosity she gathered them in on Christmas morning and loaded them up with Christmas packages. Long may she dwell in the land to do such kindly deeds.

Mr. and Mrs. Makee
The Makees entertained at dinner Monday evening, favors being laid for five, the dining room being tastefully decorated for the occasion.

Walter D. McBryde
